Charleston is a beautiful city with a rich history and culture. There are endless things to do in Charleston, but here are 10 more to add to your bucket list before you die.

1. Visit the Battery

The Battery is a beautiful park located at the southern tip of the Charleston peninsula. It offers stunning views of the harbor, Fort Sumter, and the Ravenel Bridge. The Battery is also home to several historic mansions, including the Nathaniel Russell House and the Heyward-Washington House.

2. Take a carriage ride through the Historic District

A carriage ride is a great way to see the sights of the Charleston Historic District. You'll be able to see the beautiful antebellum homes, churches, and gardens that make Charleston so unique. Carriage rides typically last for about an hour and can be booked in advance or on the day of your visit.

3. Visit the Charleston Museum

The Charleston Museum is the oldest museum in the United States. It houses a collection of over 50,000 artifacts that tell the story of Charleston's rich history. The museum is located in the heart of the Historic District and is open daily.

4. Take a ferry to Fort Sumter

Fort Sumter is a historic fort located in Charleston Harbor. It was the site of the first battle of the Civil War. You can take a ferry to Fort Sumter from the Battery or from Patriots Point. The ferry ride takes about 20 minutes and gives you a great view of the harbor and the fort.

5. Visit the Boone Hall Plantation

Boone Hall Plantation is a historic plantation located just outside of Charleston. It is one of the oldest plantations in the South and is still in operation today. You can tour the plantation house, the slave quarters, and the gardens. Boone Hall Plantation is also a popular wedding venue.

6. Go shopping on King Street

King Street is the main shopping street in Charleston. It is lined with boutiques, art galleries, and restaurants. You can find everything from souvenirs to high-end fashion on King Street. King Street is also a great place to people-watch and enjoy the city's vibrant atmosphere.

7. Eat at a Lowcountry restaurant

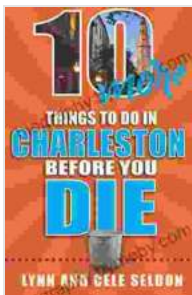

Charleston's Lowcountry cuisine is known for its fresh seafood, flavorful spices, and hearty dishes. You can find Lowcountry restaurants all over the city, but some of the most popular include Hyman's Seafood, Husk, and FIG. Be sure to try some of the local favorites, such as shrimp and grits, fried chicken, and collard greens.

8. Visit the Gibbes Museum of Art

The Gibbes Museum of Art is located in the heart of the Historic District. It houses a collection of over 10,000 works of art, including paintings, sculptures, and decorative arts. The Gibbes Museum of Art is a great place to learn about the history of art in Charleston.

9. Take a walk through White Point Gardens
