Story 1: The Thankful Turkey

Once upon a time, there was a little turkey named Tom. Tom was a very lucky turkey. He had a warm home, plenty of food to eat, and a loving family.

But Tom wasn't always thankful for what he had. He often complained about his food, his home, and his family.

One day, Tom was playing in the forest when he met a wise old owl.

"Why are you so unhappy, little turkey?" the owl asked.

"Because I don't have anything to be thankful for," Tom said.

The owl smiled. "That's not true," he said. "You have a lot to be thankful for. You have a warm home, plenty of food to eat, and a loving family."

Tom thought about what the owl said. He realized that the owl was right. He was very lucky to have what he had.

From that day on, Tom was more thankful for what he had. He stopped complaining and started appreciating the little things in life.

Story 2: The Grateful Giraffe

One day, Gerald was walking through the forest when he saw a group of lions. The lions were hungry and they were looking for food.

Gerald knew that the lions would try to eat him if they saw him. So he quickly hid behind a tree.

The lions didn't see Gerald, but they could smell him. They started to circle the tree, getting closer and closer.

Gerald was scared. He knew that if the lions found him, they would eat him.

But then, Gerald remembered his height. He could reach the highest leaves on the trees. So he quickly climbed up the tree and hid in the leaves.

The lions circled the tree for a while, but they couldn't find Gerald. Finally, they gave up and went away.

Gerald was so relieved. He was grateful for his height. It had saved his life.

From that day on, Gerald was more grateful for what he had. He stopped wishing he was shorter and started appreciating his height.
