Planning on driving in the UK? Here's everything you need to know to stay safe and avoid getting lost.

Before You Get Behind the Wheel

- Make sure you have a valid driver's license from your home country.
- Get an International Driving Permit (IDP) if your license is not in English.
- Rent a car that is appropriate for your needs and the roads you'll be driving on.
- Familiarize yourself with the UK road rules and road signs.
- Free Download a good map or GPS device.

Driving on the Left

The most important thing to remember when driving in the UK is that you drive on the left-hand side of the road. This can take some getting used to, but it's important to be aware of it at all times.

Here are a few tips for driving on the left:

- Stay in the left-hand lane unless you are overtaking.
- When you are overtaking, make sure you have plenty of room and that the road ahead is clear.
- Be aware of cyclists and pedestrians, who will be coming from your right-hand side.

UK Road Rules

The UK has a number of road rules that are different from other countries. Here are a few of the most important ones:

- The speed limit in built-up areas is 30 mph (48 km/h).
- The speed limit on motorways is 70 mph (112 km/h).
- You must wear a seatbelt at all times.
- You cannot use your mobile phone while driving.
- You must stop at a red light, even if there is no traffic coming.

UK Road Signs

The UK has a number of road signs that are different from other countries. Here are a few of the most common ones:

- Roundabouts are very common in the UK. You must give way to traffic already on the roundabout.
- Box junctions are another common feature of UK roads. You must not enter a box junction unless you are able to clear it.
- Pedestrian crossings are marked by zebra stripes. You must stop at a pedestrian crossing if there is a pedestrian waiting to cross.

Driving in London

Driving in London can be a challenge, but it is also a great way to see the city. Here are a few tips for driving in London:

- Be aware of the Congestion Charge zone, which operates in central London during the week.
- Use public transport if possible, as it is often quicker and easier than driving.
- Be patient and allow plenty of time for your journey.

Driving in the Countryside

Driving in the UK countryside is a great way to see the country's beautiful scenery. Here are a few tips for driving in the countryside:

- Be aware of narrow roads and winding bends.
- Be on the lookout for wildlife, especially deer.
- Take your time and enjoy the scenery.

Driving in Scotland

Driving in Scotland is a great way to see the country's stunning landscapes. Here are a few tips for driving in Scotland:

- Be aware of the single-track roads, which are common in rural areas.
- Be prepared for bad weather, especially in the Highlands.
- Take your time and enjoy the scenery.

Driving in Wales

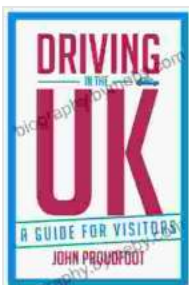

Driving in Wales is a great way to see the country's beautiful mountains and coastline. Here are a few tips for driving in Wales:

- Be aware of the narrow roads and steep hills.
- Be prepared for rain, especially in the mountains.
- Take your time and enjoy the scenery.
