ILLUSTRATION BY JEFF ALLEN

The Wine Lover's Daughter Memoir is a deeply personal and engaging story of a daughter's journey to understand her father, their relationship, and the meaning of wine. With evocative prose and vivid imagery, this memoir explores the complexities of family, loss, and the transformative power of wine.

Ann Mah grew up in a Chinese-American family in the suburbs of Washington, D.C. Her father was a successful businessman who loved to drink wine. Ann, on the other hand, was a picky eater and hardly ever drank alcohol. But after college, she moved to France to study winemaking. There, she began to appreciate the complexities of wine and its ability to bring people together.

When Ann's father was diagnosed with cancer, she returned home to be with him. In the months leading up to his death, they shared many conversations about wine, life, and family. Ann came to realize that her father's love of wine was not just a hobby, but a way of connecting with his Chinese heritage and his American identity.

The Wine Lover's Daughter Memoir is a moving and insightful exploration of the relationship between fathers and daughters, the complexities of family, and the transformative power of wine. It is a must-read for anyone who has ever loved a good wine, or who has ever struggled to understand the complexities of family relationships.

Reviews

- "Ann Mah's memoir is a beautiful and poignant exploration of the relationship between fathers and daughters, the complexities of family, and the transformative power of wine.
