

Unveiling the Hidden World: Inside the Secret Israeli Arms Network

The roots of the Israeli arms network can be traced back to the tumultuous aftermath of the Arab-Israeli War of 1967. As Israel consolidated its control over the occupied territories of Sinai, Gaza, and the West Bank, it found itself isolated on the international stage. The United States, its primary ally, imposed an arms embargo on Israel, leaving it vulnerable to potential threats from its Arab neighbors.

Faced with this daunting challenge, Israel embarked on a covert campaign to secure its defense needs. It forged clandestine alliances with sympathetic governments and arms dealers, establishing a network of intermediaries who would broker the sale of weapons and military equipment. This network, operating outside the scrutiny of official channels, became the backbone of Israel's arms procurement strategy.

At the heart of the Israeli arms network lies a complex web of intermediaries, each playing a vital role in the intricate dance of arms交易. These intermediaries include:
